FILM COMMISSION BOARD OF DIRECTORS ELECTS THREE NEW MEMBERS

The board of directors of the Monterey County Film Commission has elected three new board members to serve three-year terms. They are Joe Donofrio of Pacific Grove, Elsa Dooling of Carmel, and Richard J. Newhouse of Marina.

The Monterey County Film Commission, a nonprofit organization, was created by and is funded in part by the Monterey County Board of Supervisors. It works to attract and assist on-location film productions for economic development, and provides local educational opportunities related to the film industry. Each year an average of more than $3 million comes into local communities from film business.
